

Sri Ramachandra launches B.Tech courses in AI, cyber security

Chennai, Aug 1:

Sri Ramachandra Institute of Higher Education and Research launched two novel B.Tech courses - Computer science and Engineering with specialities in artificial intelligence and machine learning and in cyber security and internet of things, blending engineering and technology with medical science.

Speaking on the occasion Prof.V.Raju, Provost, Faculty of Engineering and Technology said 'Artificial Intelligence, Machine Learning, Internet of Things, CyberSecurity and other related technologies are emerging areas in interdisciplinary science, engineering and technology. In the next ten years, they will be prevalent in every industry and will impact all walks of life. The most important challenge arising from the evolution of these technologies is for industry, the academic institutions and the society to prepare professionals with appropriate skills and competencies.'V. R.Venkataachalam, Chancellor formally inaugurated the courses.Dr.Pratyush Panda, Professor of Computer Engineering, Artificial Intelligence, IIT, Madras,Dr.P.V.Vijayaraghavan, Vice Chancellor, SRIHER, Dr.T.K.Parthasarathy, Director, International Relations, Dr.S.P.Thyagarajan, Dean Research and Dr.Mahesh Vakamudi, Dean of Faculties, SRIHER participated in the event.